Destination Marketing

“Mamma Mia”! This could be an exclamation uttered as someone faces the “Tuscany-on-the-sea” like landscape of Skiathos for the first time, with its pine-fringed, sandy turquoise beaches. Or it could be a loud reminder of the box office hit version of the famous musical, part of which was filmed on its grounds, which in his turn pumped up the popularity of the westernmost island in the Sporades complex worldwide.

Not that Skiathos needed this; the busiest of the Sporades islands, the closest one to the Pelion peninsula (actually, with a scenery that reflects this, it is the extension of the wooded Mount Pelion), with a bit of Mykonos attitude, Skiathos had started building its cosmopolitan reputation 25-30 years ago, promising sun, sea, and late-night revelry.

I'd just like to say that going through the airport yesterday, for the TUI flight back to Manchester was a very relaxed affair. No queuing outside to check in, all desks manned, very pleasant staff, nice cheese pie in the upstairs area and no queue at security as both scanners were working, as were the toilets! 😊

Departure lounge was busy, as expected, but nowhere near as bad as in other years. Only downside was we were delayed about 45 mins. Well done JSI Airport, much better than the experience at Manchester on the way out, when TUI's new slogan should be "We dot the I's, cross the T's, and put you at the end of a very long qUeue! 😂
